

I just want to say that I think that it is not right to try and limit what XM and satellite companys can send over airwaves. I do not want to see this turn into what Satelllite TV and Cable TV has become. No local channels on Satelllite TV and such. Seems to me that the NAB is just trying to protect themselves and not worrying about other people. XM is a quality company on the cutting edge of technology. I think what they are doing is perfectly fair and legit.
